

This ongoing biography series reveals the life stories, in the context of their times, of the women and men who committed themselves to the ideal of human freedom at great personal cost. Whether it's working to free their country from foreign oppressors, or to escape the grip of domestic dictators, these life stories will inspire a new generation of readers.

Champion of Freedom series

"Two well-written and deeply inspiring biographies of individuals who have devoted their lives to the struggle for human rights. These volumes are wonderful resources for all libraries, shedding light on human-rights heroes who may be unfamiliar to most teens."

Dietrich Bonhoeffer and Aung San Suu Kyi

"Sawyer's biography gives young readers a compelling glimpse into his world. The text is easy to follow, and the book is peppered with vivid photographs that tell their own stories. The chapters are short, and each highlights a specific, often historic, time in Gandhi's life. It is the perfect classroom companion to touch on an array of issues such as religious tolerance and nationalism."
